

Someone Else

Wild Child

I saw the sun, blinked once or twice and then babe you were gone

You took my hand, led me blindly to run, away from all the things that I lost, I lost

I took your hand, led you to a place that you've never been
Your turned around gave me such a sweet grin, I knew then that you were the one

Run around hand in hand, chasing smiles and soft white sand
Looking out for number one, skipping rocks on the river till the day is done

And I'm fully convinced, that you just might find someone else

(And it scares me to death

Well, it scares me, too)

Then she walked by, you could just tell by that look in her eye
You dropped my hand and proceeded to cry, for all of the love that you lost, I lost

Then she walked by, your skin grew cold, dropped your hand from my side

Felt my heart melt just like fire on ice, afraid for my poor broken self, myself

Run around hand in hand, chasing smiles and soft white sand
Looking out for number one, skipping rocks on the river till the day is done

And I'm fully convinced, that you just might find someone else

(And I think you did already

Well, I just might have

Well, that's okay)

I woke up there

Wrapped my fingers round her curly brown hair

I know you missed me and wanted me there

But darlin' I found someone else

I know that smile I know that look in your dirty green eyes

I know that girl I know you slept there last night

And darlin' I don't really care

Run around hand in hand, chasing smiles and soft white sand
Looking out for number one, skipping rocks on the river till the day is done

And I'm fully convinced, that you just might find someone else

Run around hand in hand, chasing smiles and soft white sand
Looking out for number one, skipping rocks on the river till the day is done
And I'm fully convinced, that you just might find someone else
