

Underwhelmed

Wild Child

I'm feeling underwhelmed
I've always had it all
Always had it all
Now their overjoyed
I hate everything I touch
I'll live and die so small

Now underneath the bridge
I can light a match
And you can take it all
Now look at who you're with
So lovely what a catch
A perfect free for all

So I'll bury you before it's over
Blame it on us getting older
Maybe you're a lesson like the rest

Hold my tongue when it gets quiet
Close my eyes and you're still there smiling
Always could remember you at best

Now I'm changing up my ways
Now I'm standing still
It's quiet on the ground
But oh, it changes every day
It's all against my will
And I feel so unallowed

Now I'm building up a shrine
I'm not sure what to prove
I'm still working on my mark
And there on the other side
I see the second move
But I'm not sure where to start

So I'll bury you before it's over
Blame it on us getting older
Maybe you're a lesson like the rest
Hold my young when it gets quiet
Close my eyes you're still there crying
One more night like this
I'm heading west

Now I'm building up a shrine
I'm not sure what to prove
Still working on my mark
There on the other side
I see the second move
But I'm not sure where to start

Now I'm not feeling underwhelmed
I've always had it all
Yes I've always had it all
Now I'm overjoyed
Love everything I touch
I know I've done it all
