

Where's my kind, (I wonder) I wonder when I'll find my own
What is there to life when you're lonesome?
I know I've got time and I'm hopeful
Far away (I've travelled) I've travelled, stuck with memories
Lately, there's been change without warning (Change without warning)
I remain the same and it's boring you

But I don't really wanna know the kind of friends you've made since I
Heard you got acquainted with the boy I told you I despise

Keeping it true through a dark debut
I'm shedding light on something new
Gotta bend before you move
Hey, tell me is there something good in being wrong?

Stay on time, I better keep myself in line
Suddenly I'm losing my patience
Questioning which stars are worth chasing
Morning light shines early, must I adjust my eyes?
'Cause I could melt in this moment
Dreams of how I felt when I noticed you

But I don't really wanna know the kind of friends you've made since I Tried to get acquainted with a girl that looks my way despite

Keeping it true through a dark debut
I'm shedding light on something new
Gotta bend before you move
Maybe lately I'm losing touch, but what's the rush?
The world doesn't seem quite as rough when you've got nothing
Got you rolling those eyes over me

I'll be safe, my legs still running
Hypnotized my mind still functions better since I fell through
In the coldness there is more to Learning with your arms spread open
Saturated dots, I'm coming come to feed the horses
We should try to share the fortune

Keeping it true through a dark debut
I'm shedding light on something new
Gotta bend before you move
Maybe lately I'm losing touch, but what's the rush?
The world doesn't seem quite as rough when you've got nothing
Got you rolling those eyes over me

Keeping it true through a dark debut
I'm shedding light on something new
Gotta bend before you move
(Where's my kind, I wonder)
Hey, tell me is there something good in being wrong?
(Where's my kind?)
And I hope that I find you
