

Little Bitty Dreams

Will Hoge

I spent my small-town Saturdays watching a big 'ol movie screen
Hoping someday I'd be up there living all my dreams
And I could be a hollywood hero, make the girls all smile and weep

Think that someday they might have a boy like me

And I'd remember playing baseball, standing on the pitcher's mound

Thinking someday a fastball might get me out of this town
Maybe I could wear the pinstripes, be a Yankee true and proud
But all that seems a million dreams away right now

Cause I met you and then I knew my big dreams were done

And I'd settle down in the same small town and swear you were the one

Some might call it giving up, but it don't feel that way to me
I think it's just the two of us and our little bitty dreams

I remember I first met you, oh, how you loved to dance

Said you'd be a ballerina if you just had the chance

Maybe go to some big city, where nobody knows your name

Bathe in all the bright lights, and find your fortune and fame

But I met you and then I knew that your big dreams were done

We'd settle down in the same small town and you'd swear I was the one

Some might call it giving up, but it don't feel that way to me
I think it's just the two of us and our little bitty dreams

I remember you first told me a baby boy was on the way

And everything I thought I wanted, it just washed away

Cause I met you and then I knew my big dreams were done

I'd settle down in the same small town and try to raise a son

Some might call it giving up, but it don't feel that way to me

I think it's just the three of us and our little bitty dreams

Thank God it's just the three of us and our little bitty dreams
