

Fool Me Once

William Clark Green

its calling for rain here in Seattle a heartbreak too I've always been good at picking my battles in till I met you you were in the corner you were looking at me I was in the spotlight you were out of my league I got the feeling that I shouldn't be believing no more it's hard to ignore

I'm getting tired of waking up all alone

just fool me once
you can fool me all the hell you want
I think I love you
I'm sorry I'm a little drunk
oh just fool me once

I wish I didn't know what to expect wish you could prove me wrong and I wish it wasn't so so damn far fetched for me to steal your heart yeah you'll say something that'll make me smile I'll think about you for a little while just when I think that I finally found true love it'll all turn to dust

I'm getting tired of waking up all alone

I think I love you

I'm getting tired of waking up all alone
I think I love you

I think I love you
