

Expectation

William McDowell

Father our hearts are filled with expectation.
They are filled with love and a passion for you.
We have a hunger and a thirst that only you can satisfy.

Lord we enter this moment with anticipation we know that in your presence bodies are healed, broken dreams are restored, and lives are transformed, because with you all things are possible.

Lord we say as we worship you are welcome here.
Consume us.
Change us.
Give us visions and dreams.
Give us your heart for the nations.
Give us your heart for this generation.

And father let our generation arise and demonstrate the kind of selfless faith that will change the world. Let a generation emerge that will manifest your love in the earth so that all will come to know you.

As we worship let your presence fill this room, release signs, wonders and miracles; we'll be changed.
We expect an encounter with you & we know we'll never be the same.
