

In Walked You

William Michael Morgan

I was telling myself I was better off alone
Love was an overused word and an overplayed song
My heart was beaten up and broken on the break
So I went to get a drink
The bartender knew that look and he knew my luck
Before I could even sit down, yeah, he was setting me up
Last thing I was looking to do was hook up
Then I looked up

And in walked you on a Saturday night
Neon blue lighting up your eyes
And the only open seat in the place was next to mine
You said do you mind
And we talked like we were old friends
How you missed your dad but I remind you of him
I'd have bet I was never gonna bet on love again
Then in walked you

Like a light in a hurricane, in walked you
Splash of red in a world of gray
The right two people in the right time and place for once

We talked about hometowns and we talked about the band
And I don't even remember when I started holding your hand
It was like, it was where, it was always gonna be
Like learning to breathe
It was all just a blur but I guess it closed down the bar
Cause the next thing I knew we were sitting in a car
Under some parking lot stars with your head on my arm
I opened my heart

And in walked you on a Saturday night
Neon blue lighting up your eyes
And the only open seat in the place was next to mine
You said do you mind
And we talked like we were old friends
How you missed your dad but I remind you of him
I'd have bet I was never gonna bet on love again
Then in walked you

Like a light in a hurricane, in walked you
Splash of red in a world of gray
The right two people in the right time and place for once

I didn't promise you tomorrow
And you didn't miss
But everything I thought about tomorrow
Change just like that

And in walked you on a Saturday night
Neon blue lighting up your eyes
And the only open seat in the place was next to mine
You said do you mind
And we talked like we were old friends
How you missed your dad but I remind you of him
I'd have bet I was never gonna bet on love again
Then in walked you

Like a light in a hurricane, in walked you
Splash of red in a world of gray
The right two people in the right time and place for once