

Vultures

William Ryan Key

I don't even miss you at all this time
Think I'm finally letting these Vultures fly
Isn't like the first time, just tripped me down
Naked and bare boned, well look at me now

You dig holes in your sacred ground
Wait to watch them circling around
But you're not here on some mission from God
You're just making up for what you never got
Is it better to have had than to have not

Everyone is looking for alibis
Feeding on their answers with vultures eyes
Truth is still a potion you can't keep down
Guess you'll have to swallow it forever now

You're just making up for what you never got
Is it better to have had than to have not

You dig holes in your sacred ground
Wait to watch them circling around
But you're not here on some mission from God
You're just making up for what you never got

You dig holes in your sacred ground
Wait to watch them circling around
But you're not here on some mission from God
You're just making up for what you never got
Is it better to have had than to have not
