

Minstrel Man

Willie Nelson

Oh, wondering minstrel man singing songs of strife
How many times have you been busted for showing signs of life
Oh, singing minstrel man sometimes you get the blues
When people try to stop you from singing your songs of truth

And you sing that you're tired of seeing your brother killing one another
And that silver in the hall, but that's no silver in the dove
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love

Oh, singing minstrel man trying to do your part
Telling everyone that they're blind till they can see with their hearts
Oh, wondring minstrel man you get your clothes from good will
And your soul will never be owned by a worthless dollar bill

And you sing that you're tired of seeing your brother killing one another
And the silver in the hall, but that's no silver in the dove
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love

Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
Nobody wants to hear your songs of love
