

Son Of A Thousand Nights

Wind Rose

Feel the wind that slowly molds the sea
From the sky your whisper is sent
To show what is real through the dust of years
On my memories silently lies

Binding a melody
To this place
Your essence remains

An embrace of the mystery
Just a taste of the fate we don't know
There's a force in our dreams
That ignores the tears
From the face falling straight to the heart

Redeeming your fantasies
And what you desire
Will not mean the end
Your star will shine in the storm

We will follow the will of tomorrow
From the notes of the bards
To the echo of my rhymes
We will sing 'till the realm's awakening

Another one blurred dream
Son of a thousand nights
Spent by looking for another day
Reliving smoothly in a tragedy
But afraid in a maze of life
Hold me tight

(Hold me tight)

Redeeming your fantasies
And what you desire
Will not mean the end
To satisfy the thirst for what we need
We'll say loud the final prayer
Before saying goodbye

We will follow the will of tomorrow
From the notes of the bards
To the echo of my rhymes
We will sing 'till the realm's awakening

We will follow the will of tomorrow
From the notes of the bards
To the echo of my rhymes
We will sing 'till the realm's awakening