

Who Rules? Hyrule!

Wind Walkers

When you're lost and all alone I hope
You let these words guild you back home
All I want is what I had back then
My mind is made up and I'm not giving in

Enclosed in the comfort of your home
I felt the presence of hope
It's all I had that kept me pushing towards my goals
Without this fail-safe where else could I feel at home?
It's all we have that keeps us pushing towards our goals
Without this fail-safe where else could we feel at home?

The shades are drawn so the light can't seem to work its way in
I've been searching through my heart trying to find you within
But you've been there from the start
Nothing with tear us apart
No matter where I go you'll never be too far

I'll never take that for granted
I can't
I can't
I can't get a hold of myself
I can't
I can't
I can't get a hold of myself
High hopes for a hopeless world

I've been flowing in and out of time
Frantically searching in a shattered mind
I've been waiting for a rainy day
Where the sun shines down and I can feel its rays

The shades are drawn so the light can't seem to work its way in
I've been searching through my heart trying to find you within
But you've been there from the start
Nothing with tear us apart
No matter where I go you'll never be too far

When you're and all alone I hope
You let these words guild you back home
But with the presence of doubt lurking every corner
I can't, we can't help but be mindful
Let these words guild me back home