Never Been Yours

Winona Oak

You had my heart wrapped in
Imaginary strings
I was in too deep
I did a lot of things
I'm easy to convince
You know that about me

It took me so long to move on, to see (to see)
That I don't belong to no one but me (but me)

I've been a liar for not telling the truth
Been a fighter for sticking up for you
I've been insecure, been happy for
But I've never been yours
I've been crazy
For turning every no into maybe
Giving up control
I've been insecure, been happy for
But I've never been yours

But I've never been yours

I almost drowned in the Old emotional theft
You held over me
Sure we could play that game
I'd rather be free

It took me so long to move on, to see (to see)
That I don't belong to no one but me (but me)

I've been a liar for not telling the truth
Been a fighter for sticking up for you
I've been insecure, been happy for
But I've never been yours
I've been crazy
For turning every no into maybe
Giving up control
I've been insecure, been happy for
But I've never been yours

I've been a liar for not telling the truth
Been a fighter for sticking up for you
I've been insecure, been happy for
But I've never been yours
I've been crazy
For turning every no into maybe
Giving up control
I've been insecure, been happy for
But I've never been yours
