

Nightfall Symphony

Winterborn

The night is falling when shadows hunt the light
Darkness is calling and the day will lose the fight
Two different worlds, like black and white
The creatures are crawling, they're crawling but noone's in sight

The darkness shares it's secrets with you, not easily
And there are some things (there) that never should be, rendered unseen

Lurking in the dark, not touched by the light
There's something in the air, it doesn't seem right
Try to find your way, fear as your guide
A sense of something evil, you pray for sunrise

The darkness shares it's secrets with you, not easily
And there are some things (there) that never should be, rendered unseen

Something strange in here, under the night sky
Shadows of twilight, hiding the unknown wilderness
Nocturnal dance of the trees, wuthering nightfall symphony

Faceless fear, in the misty haze, you feel the call of the wild

The darkness shares it's secrets with you, not easily
And there are some things (there) that never should be, rendered unseen