I don't understand your plea to live or the guy's wish to take or give.

However, as backing away, he fell and lay dead amongst the fire works display.

It's not quite the way to say your goodbyes, it's not quite the way to behave.

Secured you a concrete grave beneath the motorway.

Gold scissors cut the ribbon and set them loose.

On the opening days the vibrations will shake your bones but that's just the disadvantage of not speaking a second language.

(The problems of bad reception resulting in blurred perception)
