

London Lights

With Confidence

Will you call me in the late night
Underneath the black, grey sky?
I'll tell you how I see you
In every single new girls eyes

And there will be the same fight
Just to keep our story alive
I'll tell you how I need you
But I could never be that guy

I know you're flying out
We never sort it out
This is a falling out
But I could never see it coming

I know you're flying out
We never sort it out
This is a falling out
But I could never see it coming
And though we're trying now
I'm just so tired out
And though you're distant now
I could always see you running

So call me in the London Lights
And tell me all about your twenty-hour flight
Because I know we've fallen out
You only ever call me when you miss me now

And I could be a fighter
Holding out for you and I
And I still miss your mother
Your sister and brother
But it doesn't really matter now

I know you're flying out
We never sort it out
This is a falling out
But I could never see it coming

I know you're flying out
We never sort it out
This is a falling out
But I could never see it coming
And though we're trying now
I'm just so tired out
And though you're distant now
I could always see you running

I know you're flying out
We never sort it out
This is a falling out
But I could never see it coming
I'm just so tired out

But I'll see you coming

But I'm a liar
I'm fucking tired
I'll start this fire
Can you feel it now?
Burning brighter
And raising higher
Watch it all fly away

I am the fire that never decays
You are the actress that's always in frame
We are the movie that skips and replays
You are the story that always remains

Always remains
