

Dead as the Moon

Wolverine

So you swerved away
In a painless loss
Never saw you leave
Nor when the line was crossed

Farewell
My friend
My heart

See your eyes dissolve
And your smile is new
See how faces change
In this mirrored tomb

You still seem so alive, so real
But I know you are dead
Dead as the moon

Out here on the stage
How they all perform
Actors in a farce
In a slave's play

Farewell
My friends
My fellow ghosts

See right through their masks
As they stare through me
Our horizons meet tonight

They all seem so alive, so real
All injured to live deaf and numb
And I see they are dead
Dead as the moon

Wait
Am I not the same? (Am I not the same?)
Forgotten who I am and why
Lost I play the game (Lost I play the game)
Drawn to this black star

We all seem so alive, so real
All injured to live deaf and dumb
Turning blind by this darkened sun
And I see we are dead
Dead as the moon
