

The Rise and Fall

Write This Down

Let's compromise,
so let's compromise...

It's getting harder and harder to tell,
if the words you are saying are actually felt.
Here's something for you to look forward to,
your trembling lips will get more than a kiss tonight (more than a kiss tonight).

You look at me like you're looking for an answer,
it swells up like a knot in the back of your throat.

Stay calm, stay cool, stay focused.
It's you and me against everything tonight.

You're so talented at listening to me,
without ever really hearing a word I say.
So let's call it a night,
let's call it a night,
my patience is beginning to slip away.

I could say these words all night,
but that doesn't mean you'd ever get the point.

My tongue is tired and talk is cheap,
you know,
it's easier said than done.

I could say these words all night,
but that doesn't mean you'd ever get the point.

It's time to say goodbye,
"goodbye,"
you know, it's easier said than done.
It's easier said than done.
It's easier said...

So let's compromise.

You're so talented at listening to me,
without ever really hearing a word I say.
So let's call it a night,
let's call it a night,
my patience is beginning to slip.

I could say these words all night,
but that doesn't mean you'd ever get the point.

My tongue is tired and talk is cheap,
you know,
it's easier said than done.

I could say these words all night,
but that doesn't mean you'd ever get the point.

It's time to say goodbye,
"goodbye,"

you know, it's easier said than done.

It's easier said. (4x)