

Silver

Wunderhorse

I've always known an anger
And I've always known a shame
I felt it like a hunger
Before I knew my name
I'm just an empty promise
With nothing much to say
So fill me up with poison
And pour me down the drain

Yeah, I was crooked from the cradle
I'm a bastard from the start
And I kept some pretty people
In the hollow of my heart
So spill me all your secrets
I'll sell you off for parts
I'll warm your bed
I'll pull your threads
And fill your head

With something dark
Something dark

And hush now, baby
Don't you cry
I know you're singing
Deep inside
I broke your wings
So you won't fly
You're mine, you're mine, you're mine, you're my Bluebird

So fill me up with silver
And I'll sing one just for you
And perhaps you'll meet the gambler
And perhaps you'll meet the fool
And if you listen closely
You'll even get the truth
So enjoy the show
I'll let you go
It's all I own

These empty rooms
Empty rooms
I'll see ya very soon
I'll see ya

So hush now, baby
Don't you cry
I know you're singing
Deep inside
Your broken wings
Will never fly
Bluebird

Ah, it's only a story
It's only a story

It's over, don't worry
It's only a story
It's only a story
Just say it, I'm sorry
Just say it, just say I'm-
