

Calm

Xenia

Hiding in my chest
Is a heart beating in rest
A peace beyond the means of my own reach

Oh the storms and bellowing seas
[?] that rise against me
Aware of all the waves my heart's contained

For my God has promised me a new life
Although abundant filled with strife
With gentleness He fixed my eyes to trust [?]
The world may come to wish me harm
But I'll be safe in my Savior's arms
Knowing it was He who spoke and made it all

Feel that it's your place
Heaven has my gains
And nothing else will ever take His place

For my God has promised me a new life
Although abundant filled with strife
With gentleness He fixed my eyes to trust [?]
And the world may come to wish me harm
But I'll be safe in my Savior's arms
Knowing it was He who spoke and made it all

So I will be calm
I will be calm

For I know my life is in Your hands
And all against me cannot stand
The glory present simply from Your spoken name
And the world may come to wish me harm
But I'll be safe in my Savior's arms
Knowing it was He who spoke and made it all

So I will be calm
I will be calm