Yann Tiersen

Do you recognize me
Here on this sleeper train
And do you feel the pain

Growing into the night, Mary
And i can feel the taste
Of your birthday cake
Remember how it was
To hold you into my arms, Mary

It wasn't there
The summer lights around

I wasn't there
His hand upon my knees
And we're gone
Across the sunny streets

And we're gone
The day you died, Mary
And we go faster now

Together through the fields
Here on this sleeper train
And i can touch your face, Mary

The precious things we've done
Hidden under my skin
I let you sleep a while
I let you sleep
A while, Mary

It was there
The summer lights around
I was there
His hand upon my knees
And we're gone
Across the sunny streets

And we're gone
The day you died, Mary
