

I told my friends all about you
They couldn't wait to meet
Wanted to witness the passion
This fire, they wanted to see

It's dark right now
'Cause our flame blew out
Will you come back 'round? You left your keys
This ain't home, it's house
Did I run you out?
We had plans I doubt that we will ever see

I wonder if we think the same way, always
What if we had one more chance for the old days?
You don't want 'til you want what you got, then it's gone
I replay the ending in all ways, always

I play the judge and the jury
I wouldn't let you flee, no baby
We always turn into actors
Performing for nobody

We put the curtains down
And we lost our crowd
Will you come back 'round for another scene? Scene
This ain't home, it's house
'Cause I ran you out
We have plans I doubt that we will ever see

I wonder if we think the same way, always
What if we had one more chance for the old days?
You don't want 'til you want what you got, then it's gone
I replay the ending of all ways, always

The begging can't get you to stay
Can't believe I let you slip away
You're well off on your own, now I'm here all alone
It's so black and white, we are the grey
Like I'm up and awake in a dream
It feels better when it's make-believe, my love
The ending is never forever and ever, always

I wonder if we think the same way, always
What if we had one more chance for the old days?
You don't want 'til you want what you got, then it's gone
(We don't know what we want)
I replay the ending in all ways, always

Want to forget, I regret messing around (Always)
Pick up the phone and I put it back down (Always)
You got somebody, I probably should let it go
Searched high and low, another, you can't be found (No way)
Want to forget, I regret messing around (Always)
Pick up the phone and I put it back down (Always)
You got somebody, but you will remember me
Always, always
