

I'm so lost, it's hard to find a way out of frustration, depression anyway But where to go
I'm full of aggressions Against myself and all my possessions Many people are standing in my way They're never listening to what I have to say they just continue to be like robots inspite of my biggest efforts there's no way connecting to the others too far away they seem to be just different worlds now and no understanding we only see what we want to see so I stay with those of my kind we live in different times and I know, we all are so blind although sometimes we all share one mind ooh, let me go, ooh, let me go...