

The Truth Behind

Yendri

I see the truth in you
It is behind your eyes
you never had a youth
you are as cold as ice
now you begin to smile and then you start to cry
It's all in your emotion-file well, you don't want to die

Cause you're not made of flesh and blood
You don't even know to be
I can hardly call it "you"
what stands in front of me?
The spirit doesn't live in you
you don't even seem to know
How will you ever feel the world?
Come on and tell me now

You're just an imitation
Of a human mind
In our civilisation
That once has shined
We searched the sense in you
We want a sense in life
You tell us what to do
So we will not survive

Cause you're not made of flesh and blood
You don't even know to be
what stands in front of me?
The spirit doesn't live in you
you don't even seem to know
How will you ever feel the world?
Come on and tell me now

But nothing can be done
There are too much of you
Most humans have been gone
They searched the truth in you Well that is what they found
It's the reality
That mankind doesn't count
For electricity
Cause you're not made of flesh and blood
You don't even know to be
what stands in front of me?
The spirit doesn't live in you
you don't even seem to know
How will you ever feel the world?
Come on and tell me now
