Show Me

Yes

Show me the man who is lost in the forces of love
Show me the man who?s sad dreams just won't fade away
Show me the doors where I don?t understand what it is

I would show you a man who is lonely
I would show you a man who is lost and afraid

Show me the children who remember their own father now
Show me the children who just don?t sleep anymore
Show me the days where I don?t understand what it is

I would show you a child who is lonely
I would show you a child who is lost and afraid

Everybody seems to lose their sense in what they believe in Misunderstanding what is true, anyone in love can realize
That all you need is to be good to yourself, to be good to your self

Show me a world without life, without hope anymore
Show me the days we've forgotten all the songs that we sing
Today is the day I can see what it?s all really for

I would show you a man he would dance for love
I would show you a man he would love to love
I would show you a man he would dance for love
I would show you a man he would love to love

I would show you a child who has everything
I would show you a child who has everything
I would show you a child who has everything
I would show you a child who has everything
