A story just like a fairytale
Proof that we're heading towards the end
A single verse taken from an ages long story
An evil whose shadow covered the earth
Slain by brave heros
A memory of that fleeting journey

The story comes to an end
The hero's went to sleep
Slipping into calm everyday life
Eventually, the heartless flow of time made people forget
Memory of their story became rusty and faded

But despite all of that
Your words, hopes and courage
Surely, still live inside me

Walking down the path that we both chose
Should have made me strong
But before I realized tears were rolling down my cheeks
I want to know why!
Even now, though you're not beside me
If we both depart on our journey
Surely we'll be able to find each other

The story goes on
I set off down my own path
When I stoped by a town and met by chance
You, whose story is still remembered

You were as good hearted as always
But you never miss a chance to show off, do you?
The symbols of our hard won peace were all around
So that someday in the future I don't end up all alone
So that I can remember that journey so long ago
This memory will remain with me and be my guide

A story just like a fairytale
Proof that we are headed towards the end
That fateful meeting that would change me forever
Was only one hundredth of our journey

Someday, even your unwavering courage
Will be blown away by the wind
But even if you disappear from everyone's memory
I will take your words with me into the future

I hold your hand in mine
Remembering the day that all of this started
It was such a trivial thing
But in spite of myself I break into a smile
The mundane time we spent together shines brighter then ever
I want to know why!
Even now
Whenever I look back
I can't help but smile
Because you're right there behind me

On this land that you defended to the last
We'll start our new journey
Our budding life together
