

Undo

YOHIO

Just so you know I hope you're happier than I
Wondering what we could have been
Still longing for the life we lived
I just wanted to be someone
And I know that you were the one
But in a way I was running away from all of the things I've done
I know it's selfish but we were still so young
Wake up in the morning feeling lost and out of place
And I'm not brave enough to face the pain, the pain

Undo the memories I have to live through
A wishper from different time
When love was on the line
It's true, I'll never be the same without you
It hurts so much to think of your smile
I guess this is goodbye

I want you to know I'm doing fine, I'll be alright
But from time to time I'm giving in Still longing for what could've been
And even though it's been so long
The memory of you still too strong
I've traveled the world trying to fill the void that you left behind
I know it's crazy but I still wish you were mine
Wake up in the morning feeling lost and out of place
And I'm not brave enough to face the pain, the pain

Undo the memories I have to live trough
A wishper from a different time
When love was on the line
It's true, I'll never be the same without you
It's hurts so much to think of your smile
I guess this is goodbye

So take a moment, let reality make you insane
It's so damn tragic but I know that God is in the rain
One, two, three, four, fade away...
'cus I will never be the same without your love
Your love

Undo the memories I have to live through
A whisper from different time
When love was on the line
It's true, I'll never be the same without you
It hurts so much to think of your smile
I guess this is goodbye
I guess this is goodbye...