Rain Still Falls

Yonder Mountain String Band

Run away to chase old times
Hanging on a clinging vine
Climbing up your highway sign
Don't the rains still fall.

Sky is dark I can see.
Turn your light away from me.
It scares away my memory.
Don't the rains still fall
Silently.

I called her up without a dime
Wires stretch across the sky
Darkest line on her darker eye

Eastbound freight with endless weight of parallels
You cant relate.

I looked to you I lost my way

I never thought I would slip away
Hold you closer every day
Price my mind has got to pay
Don't the rains still fall

Rolling down an empty road

What I have I cannot hold
Where I stand I cannot go
Don't the rains still fall
On the way back home.

I call her up without a dime
Wires stretch across the sky
Darkest line on her darker eye

Eastbound freight with endless weight of parallels
You cant relate.

I looked to you I lost my way.

Rolling down an empty road
What I have I cannot hold
Understand I cannot go
Don't the rains still fall
On the way back home.

Don't the rains still fall
On the way back home.
