

Gasoline For Two

You Am I

You want to leave today while the town's still yawning.
Put on your dancing shoes, I got gasoline for two.
I ain't got no plan except the straight and stupid.
If you got a light keep the stirofoam and coffee lid tight.

But if I'm a flake and you're too eager.
Let's get it straight who's in the passenger seat.
But don't let me down 'cause I don't know if I can take it again.

Coast to coast, every night I think you're everyday.
You feel my hands, you think I go soft that way.
You notice lately how everyone who's talking has got less to say and I think it's getting worse every other single day.

But I'm a fake and you've got no credence.
Let's get it straight who's in the passenger seat.
But don't let me down 'cause I don't think I could take
it again.
Don't know if I, don't know if I could take it again.

You want to go all the way. Can we go all the way?
You want to go all the way. Can we go all the way?

Do you really want to get out of this crowd
Or do you just want to make it the next town?
