

On Ghost Ridge

Yuna

Sometimes far across the winter plain
Call my name
Softly tears of rain run down my cheek
Whispering

A power full of fear and nowhere left to run
The cold and lonely end of promises undone
Before the rising sun, hold on and take my hand
We'll ride a falling star into the spirit land

Sometimes far across the winter plain
Call my name