

In A Stranger's Arms

Yvonne Elliman

It's an uphill climb to get on top
Not to stop and never fall
It takes so much time just to be secure
You're never sure if it's worth it all

But tonight whether it's wrong or right
I can't tell
'Cause I don't know you all that well
You can't trust everybody you meet
Out here on the street
You might want to test your charms in a stranger's arms

It's a lonely town
With fancy cars, private bars, and desperate souls

It's so upside down
And the dream you're in can surely spin out of control

But tonight whether it's wrong or right
I can't tell
'Cause I don't know you all that well
You can't trust everybody you meet
Out here on the street
You might want to test your charms

It's sometimes hard to find
Just what's on some stranger's mind
You might want to test your charms in a stranger's arms
In a stranger's arms
