

Tomorrow

Zach Bryan

Well everyone's an enemy
I don't know what's gotten into me
But every thing I seem to do, seems to come back and haunt you
You're always a friend to me
So damn friendly
And everything we always did reminded me of when we were, kids

We'd sit in that parking lot and talk to girls and talk to God
And act like we had it figured out, when really we just wanted out
That ghost town, with nothing to do
Where I fell in love with you
Cigarettes and liquor swigs
Wearing masks and wearing wigs

Why you acting like you love me, when we both know you wanna go
Why are you saying theses things and talking of rings, when you
'll be, gone tomorrow?
Gone tomorrow, be gone tomorrow, yeah I'll be lonely tomorrow

Waking up at 3 AM
You're in my bed, talking shit again, about a place you know, w here we can go through this Hell and to Heaven

Why are you saying theses things and talking of rings, when you
'll be, gone tomorrow?
Gone tomorrow, be gone tomorrow, I'll be lonely tomorrow

Everyone's an enemy
I don't know what's gotten into me
But every thing I seem to do, seems to come back and hurt you

Why you acting like you love me, when we both know you wanna go
Why are you saying theses things and talking of rings, when you
'll be, gone tomorrow?
Gone tomorrow, be gone tomorrow, I'll be lonely tomorrow

You were always a friend to me
You were so damn friendly
Everything we always did reminded, me
Of when we were kids
