Psalm of the City of the Dead

As we wait here for a sign we are greeted by the end of time, These streets aren't paved with gold, You are my everything, My soul is growing cold