

Patient Zero

Zero Hour

Every thought I know
returns in a haze
And every move I show goes dark into a maze
And every move I see steals shadows from light While all the strength in me refuses to fight

Everlong each movement stings
Each night a death knell rings
Everlong
Everlong the daybreak brings detachment from everything
Everlong

Once freedom reigned in the land of the fathers
But now I am shamed
misplace and guarded

I see the revelation
of their ways
to for ever and ever
press a boot upon each face

Now I'm locked away
all I have are dreams accused for asking why guilty for questioning schemes

And they use blame
to change the game

Still the world inside me
will not be erased
I'll transcend this madness
both in time and space

They deny our futures
for them there's none
in their final solution
they will regret what they've done

Born free birthright birthright born free

Come into the process
Here it's safe and warm Even in the coldest winter
we mesmerise and charm

The weak we find disgusting
they will do our deeds enforce the laws we give them to satisfy our greed Human

Disease
Human
Disease
Mental
Disease

I look out my cell window towards my home life was rich there but now with grief it's overgrown

I am defiant
I am violent
when you take away
everything I've known

Pure pressure
Peer censure
slandering your name
leaves those distraught
that you wish to tame

Peer pressure
Pure pressure
bow down and serve
builds the pressure
what you deserve

Every thought I know
returns returns
in a peaceful grace
And every mood I show will still will still be embraced

And every move I see
will be will be a clarity of sight

While all the power in me won't cease won't ever cease to give up the fight
No