

Ordinary Face

Zoot Woman

You think your face is ordinary
But you don't know that they see more
You say your life is ordinary
That you can't feel it come alive
You don't believe it comes alive
And no ordinary words will convince you

People might leave their heads
People beg, borrow and steal
People care what you feel
Do you feel it too

People might leave their heads
People don't always say you mean more
Than this ordinary life that's real and true

You think your face is ordinary
That you can't feel it come alive
You don't believe it comes alive
And no ordinary words will convince you

People might leave their heads
People beg, borrow and steal
People care what you feel
Do you feel it too
People might leave their heads
People don't always say you mean more
Than this ordinary life that's real and true

Put your feelings next to you
Put your feelings next to you

People might leave their heads
People beg, borrow and steal
People care what you feel
Do you feel it too

People might leave their heads
People don't always say you mean more
Than this ordinary life that's real and true

Put your feelings next to you
